- C. If we receive notice of legal action being undertaken against us for actions performed by you, and in any case of a dispute, claim, action demand or legal proceedings arising between you and us;
- D. If a claim is raised, or if we are given to suspect that you have performed or may perform an act or omission that harms or may harm us or one of our representatives or any third parties, including other Users of the Services;
- E. If a claim is raised, or if we are given to reasonably suspect that you have made use or may make use of the Services to perform an illegal act or to allow, ease, assist or abet the performance of such an act;
- F. If a claim is raised, or if we are given to reasonably suspect that you have breached one of the terms of this Privacy Policy or any other agreement you may hold with us or with one of our representatives;

Cookies

10. The Website, or some of its service providers, use Cookies, inter alia, for the routine and functional operation of the Website, collection of statistical data about the use of the Website, confirmation of details, provision of personally tailored content, and information security. All of the foregoing is intended to adapt the Website to your preferences, so that the our servers will be able to identify you quickly and efficiently.

11. “Cookies” are small textual files transferred to your computer or cellular device by the internet server. These files are not computer software, and do not have the ability to read the data they contain or perform any actions with respect thereto.

12. By consenting to the following terms, you permit us to “plant” cookies on your computer or cellular device, and to use the data stored in the Cookies to identify you.

13. If you are interested in blocking cookie files while browsing any website, you may change the preferences of the browser you are using so that it requests your confirmation each time individually; or, alternatively, so that it refuses Cookies by default. If you do not know how to do this, you can look up the procedure using the “Help” tab in the browser you are using. Please note that if you disable Cookie files, this may impact the services provided and other data about your preferences and browsing habits.

14. You may, of course, refuse to use Cookies; however, if you do so, while you are still permitted to use the Website, some parts or characteristics of the Website may be restricted to you.

15. We may allow other companies to manage the advertisement campaigns on the Website. The advertisements visible to you when you visit the Website may originate in the computers of those companies. In order to manage their advertisements, these companies leave Cookies on your computer. Cookies allow these companies to collect data regarding the websites in which you viewed advertisements they placed, and which advertisements you clicked on. The use of Cookies by these companies is subject to their own privacy policies, and not our Privacy Policy.

Linked Websites

16. It is possible that, while you Use the Website, the Website may provide links and references to other websites and pages on the internet that are operated by Third Parties (“Linked Websites”), wherein you may, inter alia, accept or purchase various products and services. It is possible that these Websites and pages will request that you register or provide various information. It is agreed that we have no knowledge, control or liability with respect to what occurs on these Linked Websites. The provision of information and registration on these websites are not subject to our Website’s Privacy Policy, but rather, to the privacy policies of said Linked Websites, and to the provisions of the law. Browsing these Websites and pages, as well as any other actions taken with respect thereto, is done solely at your own liability and at the liability of the owners of said Linked Websites. You shall not have, and hereby waive in advance, any claim or demand against us or any of our representatives resulting from a loss, monetary loss or direct or indirect damages stemming from your reliance on or use of content or information provided on these Linked Websites.
